To whom it may concern,

As a US citizen and a member of the high tech industry (I work as a computer consultant) I am more than tired of the Anti-trust case brought by the US government against Microsoft. My understanding of the current settlement is that it is more than fair to all parties involved. The government needs to move to get it finished. The 9 states that are holding out are clearly doing so in their and a few of their constituents best interest. The court system in the US is not designed to be used as a method by some companies to hamstring an able competitor! That would be unfair business practice...and yet that is exactly what has been happening. Settle the case and get the hell off of Microsoft's back!!!

Thanks
